

Trapp Technology Presents WNBA Tickets to American Cancer Society and American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network Event and Program Volunteers

Arizona IT solutions company donates Phoenix Mercury game day tickets to show support for non-profit organization and its volunteers

Scottsdale, Arizona – July 30, 2015 – Scottsdale-based Trapp Technology, a provider of IT, Internet, VoIP, and cloud hosting solutions, recently provided a package of WNBA game tickets to volunteers of the American Cancer Society – the largest nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem. The Phoenix Mercury vs. Chicago Sky game was held at the US Airways Center in Phoenix, Arizona on July 28, 2015.

The ticket recipients were American Cancer Society and American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network (ACS CAN) event and program volunteers who donate their time and talents to help deliver our programs that are free to cancer patients and their support systems; Reach To Recovery, Road To Recovery, Look Good, Feel Better, hotel partner lodging, and Hope Lodge; and promote advocacy work to ensure that cancer remains a local, state, and national priority. Many of the volunteers are cancer survivors themselves or caregivers. Attending events such as these provide the volunteers and cancer survivors the opportunity to connect with others who share a similar journey, and to enjoy a night out before they gear up for upcoming events including Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walk of Phoenix scheduled for August, and Relay For Life events in the fall.

“The American Cancer Society is grateful for the continued support from Trapp Technology,” said Coleen McKinstry, community manager for the Making Strides Against Breast Cancer event of Phoenix. “This partnership allows us to recognize volunteers and survivors for the great work they do in delivering the lifesaving mission of the Society.”

“Our ticket donation to the American Cancer Society is a small token of appreciation to their millions of supporters committed to saving the lives of cancer patients, providing better healthcare, and overall prevention,” said Nicole Wheeler, Event Coordinator at Trapp Technology. “Trapp Technology’s contribution to the American Cancer Society hopes to inspire peers to do their part in furthering cancer research, education, and advocacy as these volunteers and survivors have so bravely done.”

Trapp Technology has previously collaborated with other non-profit organizations including Camp Soaring Eagle, Suns Charities, the CRC Foundation, Patrick Peterson Foundation, Arizona Hemophilia Foundation, and more to engage the Arizona community in more charitable involvement.

About the American Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society is a global grassroots force of more than 2.5 million volunteers saving lives and fighting for every birthday threatened by every cancer in every community. As the largest voluntary health organization, the Society's efforts have contributed to a 22 percent decline in cancer death rates in the U.S. during the past two decades, and a 50 percent drop in smoking rates. Thanks in part to our progress nearly 14.5 million Americans who have had cancer and countless more who have avoided it will celebrate more birthdays this year. We're determined to finish the fight against cancer. We're finding cures as the nation's largest private, not-for-profit investor in cancer research, ensuring people facing cancer have the help they need and continuing the fight for access to quality health care, lifesaving screenings, clean air, and more. For more information, to get help, or to join the fight, visit cancer.org or call us anytime, day or night, at 1-800-227-2345.
