

VIRTUAL ROLE-PLAY TRAINING

The Alelo Team is committed to creating learning tools and solutions that change the way people communicate. We help our learners acquire new skills and apply them when it counts.

Alelo Virtual Role-Play training products can help you learn to:

- Work effectively with people from other countries
- Speak a foreign language
- Engage with local people in overseas missions
- Build stronger customer relationships
- Lead and manage cross-generational teams
- Work more effectively with teammates
- Improve your clinical skills

It works because:

- Alelo VRP is grounded in proven pedagogy and social-science research.
- Learners understand differing mindsets by getting first-hand exposure to other perspectives.
- Learners speak and choose screen-based options to interact with artificially intelligent characters that coach, challenge, encourage, and engage.
- Learners get meaningful life-like feedback that instantly demonstrates the consequences of their behaviors.
- Simulations include tasks and situations similar to what learners are likely to encounter in the real world.
- Life-like practice without the risk of failure ensures that learners retain and sustain their acquired skills, and can confidently apply them.
- The system automatically personalizes instruction based on each learner's evolving competency profile.
- Real-time performance metrics provide learners and their supervisors with continuous progress assessments.

Hundreds of thousands of people around the world have improved their communication skills using Alelo products. To find out how Alelo products can help you solve critical communication problems in your organization, contact us at inquiries@alelo.com.

alelo®

PLAY. LEARN. COMMUNICATE.®