

For editors:

Klibansky:

Joseph Klibansky makes large-scale, idealistic digital paintings that are built up through hundreds of layers of photography enriched with acrylic paint on archival cotton paper overlaid with a liquid resin. His work conveys a layering and compression of time, space and place creating new narratives by creating dreamy images of cities, combining past and future.

A Dutch artist at 31 with worldwide fame, he broke a record at the age of 28 when he sold a work for €40000. That's an international record for such a young artist.
