Gain control of your mobile usage and spend

Corporate mobile use continues to grow, as does the complexity and expense of managing it. Average usage and overall costs continue to increase with the proliferation of multiple devices (from smart phones to tablets), the increased use of data applications, as well as ever-changing rate plans. Securely managing the mix of employee-owned and corporate-liable devices further complicates matters.

Having the time and proper tools is one of your biggest challenges.

Despite being a large component of overall telecom costs, many companies just don't have the time or resources to properly manage their wireless telecom. Frequent upgrades, personnel changes and the like, cause companies to lose control over exactly what they have, who has it, and what they are paying for. Inefficient spreadsheet-based chargeback systems can take days to generate reports.
