Language Scientific Announces Sharon Blank as New CEO

MEDFORD, MA (September 24, 2015) - Language Scientific, Inc. ®, a leading translation and localization services company, is proud to announce Sharon Blank as its new CEO as of September 16th, 2015. Most recently serving as Language Scientific's Vice President of Sales and Marketing, Ms. Blank brings 20 plus years of global sales expertise and a strong background of working with diverse industries including healthcare, biotech, pharmaceutical, research, academia and information technology.

Language Scientific has seen continued growth during the past two years and has hired more staff to enhance its unique service offerings such as Linguistic Validation, Cognitive Debriefing and Pharmacovigilance translation services. Language Scientific is currently exploring new options to expand on its offering of high quality technical and medical translation services and cutting edge technology to generate new language service options for its customers.

"During Sharon's tenure as Vice President of Sales and Marketing, we have seen significant growth and stability in Language Scientific" says Leonid Fridman, President and Founder. "As CEO, Sharon will be able to continue our development trajectory and further expand our business offerings."

In her new role Blank will be responsible for strategic planning, developing new business, and seeking out new growth opportunities.

"I am excited to have the opportunity to lead Language Scientific and continue to expand our unique globalization offerings," says Blank "I am looking forward to working with the management team to increase our footprint as the industry expert for technical and medical translation services. The Language Scientific team prides itself on its quality technical translation services, and I look forward to maintaining the high quality of all our offerings."

With over 20 years as a full-service language services provider, Language Scientific offers a wide portfolio of services, including Translation, Software and Multimedia Localization, Website Translation, Interpreting (both scheduled and on-demand), Linguistic Validation and Cognitive Debriefing, Natural Language Processing and other customized language solutions. Language Scientific specializes in scientific and technical translation and localization and has earned independent ISO9001 and EN15038 certifications.
