

Military Transition Seminar

Plan and develop your post-military career guided by Afterburner, a veteran-owned company that trains Fortune 500 executives.

Workshop Objective

Equip participants with the skills to plan & execute the development of a post-military career.

Workshop Outcomes

- An executable career plan – career objectives, networking strategy, and interviewing skills
- Craft a personal Value Proposition
- Shift from a military to a business “mindset”
- Identify specific industries that need military leader skillsets

Who Should Attend?

Transitioning veterans of all ranks that are interested in developing a post-military career. If you're simply interested in securing a job without a foundational understanding of how to develop a civilian career, this workshop is not for you! Want to develop 75% of your post-military career plan using the simple process we teach Fortune 500 Executives every day? Then this seminar is for you!

This unique workshop is presented by Afterburner, Inc. a veteran-owned and staffed training and consulting company founded in 1996 that has worked with over 30% of the U.S Fortune 500 and many Global 1000 corporations, including the NFL.

This workshop is sponsored by USAA, which was founded in 1922 by military members to service the unique needs of military families. USAA has new online tools that can help you navigate the decisions you'll face when you separate or retire. You can find the tools on USAA's website in the Leaving the Military section under Advice or in the Leaving the Military section under Military Life on USAA's mobile app.

- The Military Separation Assessment Tool provides cost-of-living comparisons between military and civilian pay across different cities.
- The Military Separation Checklist guides you through the steps, starting up to 24 months in advance
- The free Job Finder tool helps you find and apply for jobs that match your interests and experience.
- A comprehensive, free Leaving the Military Guide is also available for download.
