

CMS Speaker to speak on PQRS Incentive Program at iPatientCare National User Conference 2015, November 6, 2015

iPatientCare Announces Great User Engagement at National User Conference 2015, featuring Keynote and Rich Educational Sessions from CMS Speaker, User Panelists, and CEO/CTO/STO

Woodbridge, NJ, Oct 27, 2015 — iPatientCare, Inc., a pioneer in mHealth and cloud-based ambulatory EHR and integrated Practice Management and Patient Engagement solutions announced today a special session from Centers for Medicare and Medicaid \(CMS\) speaker on CMS Incentives at the grand annual event of iPatientCare, namely, National User Conference (NUCON) 2015, on November 6, 2015. iPatientCare’s annual user conferences would focus on education/exhibition/entertainment, involve national participation of iPatientCare users and channel partners, and generate great excitement and applaud for the series of presentations involving sneak preview of the future product releases and fun events engaging the entire iPatientCare community.

Like every year, NUCON 2015 will provide a great opportunity of learning on the latest developments with iPatientCare product suite, and of course, would unite and connect iPatientCare channel partners, end users, certified professionals, business partners, and employees of iPatientCare.

“With the Meaningful Use Final Rule just getting published, most of our users are curious to know what all they need to focus on MU and PQRS reporting for this year which ends in about eight weeks. As a leader in Ambulatory health IT space, we constantly work towards disseminating policy initiatives focusing on reduced costs, improved quality and better outcomes. Meaningful Use (MU) and Physicians Quality Reporting System \(PQRS\) attract more excitement and attention because they affect ambulatory practices’ bottom line. We welcome Ashley Spence, Communications/Education and Outreach lead for the Physician Quality Reporting System (PQRS) and Electronic Prescribing (eRx) Incentive Program at CMS as a speaker. Ms. Spence’s session will provide an amazing opportunity to NUCON attendees to learn about the incentive programs from CMS by interacting with her and participating in Q&A.”, said Udayan Mandavia, President/CEO, iPatientCare.

Ashley Spence is currently a Health Insurance Specialist in the Division of Electronic and Clinician Quality. Since joining CMS in 2012, she has served as the Communication/Education and Outreach lead for the Physician Quality Reporting System (PQRS) and Electronic Prescribing (eRx) Incentive Program. In this capacity, Ashley provides leadership and input for various campaigns and product development for the agency. Prior to joining CMS, Ashley worked in communication positions at The Johns Hopkins University and the United States Department of Defense.

“The overwhelming success of NUCONs has encouraged us to come with yet another episode of exciting annual event”, said Kedar Mehta, Chief Technology Officer, iPatientCare. He further added, “We are all set to kick-off the holiday season over wine, cheese and chocolates, special gift pack, breakfast/lunch/pizza/pasta, and a chance to win a cruise to Bahamas at the grand finale.”
