25 Years of Passion for Innovation

IML Drilling Resistance Devices since 1990

1990: IML Prototype

- IML develops, constructs and produces the first functioning prototype of a drilling resistance measuring device with a telescope guidance for needle support.
- This prototype lays the foundation for the successful further developments of the IML drilling resistance device.

2015: Innovations of IML

- The development of more than 8 different drill models, which fit all requirements, made IML the market leader in the segment of drilling resistance measurement devices.
- Our goal is to strengthen this market position and to keep producing leading innovative products.
