Press Release:

Beckwood Press Company Promotes Josh Dixon to Director of Sales and Marketing

St. Louis, MO – Beckwood Press Company has promoted Josh Dixon to Director of Sales and Marketing. In his new role, Josh is responsible for continuing to increase company revenue by developing and implementing sales and marketing strategies that reflect Beckwood's vision and values. He will also serve as a liaison between the sales, engineering, and production departments to ensure that every press is designed and manufactured in accordance with Beckwood's quality standards.

Mr. Dixon joined the Beckwood team as a lead Sales Engineer in 2011 after graduating from the University of Missouri-St. Louis with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management. Since then, he has acted as a primary customer contact, applying Beckwood's industry-leading hydraulic press technologies and manufacturing capabilities to each customer's unique application in an effort to tailor the perfect manufacturing solutions.

"Josh has a proven track record of successfully adding value to our customers experience by attentively providing superior technical knowledge and unique solutions," said Beckwood President, Jeffrey Debus. "We are confident that he will be able to instill this talent throughout our sales and marketing teams to better enhance our customer experience and ultimately the success our global customers have with our products and services."
