Leading Intellectual Property Attorney Joins Boutique Law Firm with a Particular Focus on Entrepreneurs Cahill IP, a boutique law firm specializing in Intellectual Property practice, is expanding operations in the Louisville market. The firm has added veteran Intellectual Property attorney Michelle Browning Coughlin with plans for further expansions.

Louisville, Ky. (April 25, 2016) - Cahill IP is expanding their boutique firm in the Louisville market by adding Michelle Browning Coughlin who will provide clients with strategic counseling on trademark and copyright matters, cybersquatting matters, as well as the enforcement of brands online. "We're excited to add a seasoned attorney like Michelle to our firm. Her experience advising companies on trademark matters has a significant impact on the economic vitality of our city and region. Michelle has dedicated her practice of law to growing our entrepreneurial community in Louisville," says Amy Sullivan Cahill, founder of Cahill IP.

In addition to her law degree, Michelle's bachelors degree in Biochemistry and masters degree in Social Work provide a unique perspective to her trademark and copyright strategy, clearance, prosecution, and enforcement that helps companies maintain control of their most valuable assets and grow. "It's thrilling to assist companies of every size to protect their intellectual property, but I have a particular fondness for working with early stage companies and startups. The energy of entrepreneurs and their passion for their ideas is what draws me to this practice area. I love collaborating to find cost-effective strategies to protect their brand so my clients can focus on developing their new company" says Michelle Browning Coughlin.

Browning Coughlin joined Cahill IP on April 18, 2016 spending the last two years in the IP group at Dinsmore & Stohl and four years of practice at Bingham Greenebaum Doll working with clients from large corporate entities to early stage companies.

Recognized by her peers as a Super Lawyers "Rising Star" in Intellectual Property and a Louisville Magazine Top Lawyer in Trademark and Copyright Law, as well as Technology Law and Privacy/Information Law, Browning Coughlin was also a Business First 40 Under 40 recipient in 2013.
