

One Of The Top Rehab Centers in Orange County California Implements Naltrexone Implants To Improve Long Term Recovery Success Rate

Award winning Orange County rehab Broadway Treatment Center adds new therapy that reduces relapses for their patients. Studies have shown that Naltrexone implants are proven to boost success rates among drug or alcohol addicts as a part of substance abuse treatment.

Huntington Beach, California (PRWEB) May 03, 2016 -- Broadway Treatment Center has introduced Naltrexone Therapy to their growing portfolio of services they offer their clients. Naltrexone can be administered orally, injected, or through an implant. Oral medication can often be forgotten, so Broadway is offering the implant version. The Naltrexone implant has been proven to dramatically decrease the relapse rate of people in recovery from opiates and/or alcohol. Naltrexone blocks the opiate receptors in the recovering addict's brain, in turn, dramatically reducing cravings. It is a non-addictive medication and will not block the body's natural endorphins. If a person does happen to relapse, Naltrexone will prevent the person from feeling high. For information about Naltrexone implants contact the office and speak with a professional adviser here, (714) 443-8218.

The freedom from intense cravings and the inability to become high is what helps people in recovery get through those challenging first months in recovery. Naltrexone will alleviate these physical symptoms and allow the person to focus on the emotional and psychological aspects of their sobriety. The Naltrexone pellet is implanted just under the person's skin in a painless procedure. The implant will slowly release a dose of medication over the next two months and provide extra physical support.

Broadway recommends that their clients continue their Naltrexone therapy for at least a year following completion of their monitored withdrawal detox program. This will ensure they have had time to develop new, healthy habits, and a healthy mindset surrounding their addiction. Naltrexone has showed no ill side-effects and has dramatically increased the success rate of staying sober after recovery. The naltrexone implant is a valuable comfort measure that makes the transition to recovery easier and more likely to last.

Broadway Treatment Centers is one of the fastest growing substance abuse recovery centers in Southern California. The Orange County substance abuse treatment facility has expanded by over 200 % since their start in 2012, and are continuing to grow. Their multidisciplinary approach to addiction recovery is ever expanding with newly added therapies and constantly improving technologies. The addition of naltrexone therapy is part of their larger goal of being able to provide multiple comfort options to their clients.

Broadway currently offers many unique modalities to fit the needs of their clients. Many different therapy options such as Sand Tray Therapy, IV Vitamin Therapy, Music and Art Therapy, Yoga Therapy, Equine Therapy, Trauma Therapy, and Surfing. In addition to the wide array of therapies, Broadway also offers Nexalin as a holistic alternative to medication therapies. Nexalin Therapy uses cutting edge, non-invasive, brainwave technology to reset the brain. The Nexalin device uses harmless waves to stimulate the hypothalamus and mid-brain, resetting their function to a normal level. The effects are shown to be long term and a great alternative to medication.

Broadway Treatment Centers was one of the pioneers in the pet friendly addiction treatment movement. They were one of the first treatment centers to allow pets to accompany their clients to rehabilitation. It has been proven that animals are very beneficial in a therapeutic capacity during addiction treatment. The relationship between pet and owner offers a great source of comfort and reassurance while in recovery. The love and support a pet gives a client is unwavering, and many times that is what is needed to make it through the first few weeks of addiction recovery, which prove to be some of the toughest.

Broadway Treatment Centers also provides couples addiction treatment. A dynamic approach of treating the individual along with the couple has proven to help both people successfully recover. Broadway addresses and works through many factors that will make it possible for a couple to fully recover and successfully achieve long term sobriety. Broadway will work closely with both parties in the relationship to really get to know their needs and wants, and what they envision for their relationship in recovery. Broadway offers many different types of addiction treatment plans within the modalities of Couples Rehabilitation. There is sure to be something for everyone.
