

For immediate release

Real Capital Analytics Invests in Brazil through Strategic Partnership and Investment in SiiLA

New York, NY, June 23, 2016 - Real Capital Analytics (RCA), the leading global provider of capital markets data for commercial real estate, announces that it has made a minority investment in SiiLA – a recently launched information platform for the commercial real estate industry in Brazil with plans for further expansion throughout Latin America. In conjunction, RCA has also entered into a long-term license agreement with SiiLA to provide its clients with significantly enhanced transactional data for Brazil.

“Brazil and Latin America are growing investment targets for many of our clients who have been frustrated by a dearth of available information on the property markets there,” said Robert White, Jr., founder and president of RCA. “SiiLA is a first class platform, which combined with a strong local research team, is facilitating a new level of transparency for these markets and we are very pleased to be a part of that.”

“In Brazil, SiiLA already has tremendous traction with many of the largest international players in commercial real estate and we expect this to continue as the platform expands throughout Latin America,” said Giancarlo Nicastro, CEO of SiiLA Brasil. “This deal is a significant milestone for SiiLA. We are thrilled to be joining forces with RCA, the undisputed leader in independent global capital markets research for the commercial real estate industry.”

About Real Capital Analytics, Inc.

Real Capital Analytics, Inc. (RCA) is the authority on the deals, the players and the trends that drive the commercial real estate investment markets. Covering all markets globally, RCA delivers timely and reliable data with unique insight into market participants, pricing and capital flows. The most active investors, lenders and advisors depend on RCA’s market intelligence to formulate strategy and to source, underwrite and execute deals. An industry pioneer since 2000, RCA has offices in New York, San Jose, London and Singapore.

For more information, visit: www.rcanalytics.com

About SiiLA

SiiLA Investors, LLC (dba “SiiLA”) is a research and analytics firm based in Dallas, Texas that operates a data platform for the commercial real estate industry in Latin America. SiiLA subscribers have access to property listings, real estate news, building records, lease and sale transaction data, capital markets information, market statistics, interactive maps, fund data, and a network of real estate professionals. SiiLA launched its first product offering in Brazil (SiiLA Brasil) in October 2015 and will launch in other major countries of Latin America in 2017. For more information, visit: www.siiila.com

Media Contact:

Mark Bell

Vice President of Marketing

Real Capital Analytics, Inc.

Tel: 646-395-2038

- end -