THE ART OF DECEPTION

How Hackers and Con Artists Manipulate You and What You Can Do About It

People are the weakest security link. They can be manipulated or influenced into unknowingly helping hackers break into their organization's computers. You'll learn how easily you can be an unsuspecting victim who can be manipulated into handing over the keys to the kingdom, if you haven't done so already.

Kevin Mitnick will entertain and educate you by performing his "live technology magic show" of the latest hacking techniques. You just might realize that you—like almost everyone else on the planet—have a misplaced reliance on security technology, which has now become ineffective against a motivated hacker using a technique called "social engineering." Kevin will be joined by Bill Winterberg, CFP®, an expert on technology for financial professionals, who will apply Kevin's advice on hacking and security to the world of financial services.

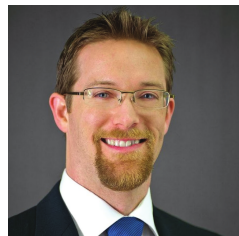

Learn to detect manipulation and take steps to protect yourself and your organization.

Gain the power to think defensively.
