“Unlocking Myanmar’s Manufacturing Potential!”

“ADB forecasts Myanmar’s economic growth to recover to 8.4% in fiscal year 2016 (ending 31 March 2017).”

~ Asian Development Outlook 2016, ADB

“...the Myanmar Investment Law is expected to ease some restrictions on business and support an increase in foreign investment.”

~ Myanmar Times, 1 Jun 2016

“Last year, the Swedish multinational clothing retailer H&M shifted its sweater production from China to Myanmar. It also plans to open a similar facility in Bago, northeast of Myanmar’s largest city Yangon, which will create jobs for thousands of people.” ~ China Daily Asia, 27 March 2016

“...six foreign investment proposals to build pharmaceutical manufacturing factories have also been approved.”

~ The Report: Myanmar 2016, Health & Education, Oxford Business Group

With the newly-elected NLD government onboard, Myanmar is poised to be the next regional manufacturing hub. New investors from apparel and pharmaceutical sectors as well as light, medium to heavy industries from electronics, steel, food, beverages, and consumer goods are attracted to the country with its sixty million population. Though Myanmar’s potential for growth is tremendous, it is not without challenges.

Are you updated on:

- Progress status of the country’s SEZ/ industrial zones development?
- Complex challenges faced by emerging and established manufacturers?
- New government initiatives to tackle infrastructure woes and inconsistent power supply?
- Options for financing with the entry of new foreign banks?
- Critical labor regulations and productivity issues faced by investors?
