

We equip organizations to achieve breakthroughs in performance.

Since our founding in 1997, Sinclair Group has developed a worldwide reputation for delivering extraordinary results in performance. Our distinction lies in our approach to work that encompasses a unique view of seeing the world.

Our Approach

We see the world through four dimensions - the individual, the organization, behaviors and systems. The intent of addressing all four dimensions is to achieve world-class results that penetrate your entire organization.

By working through challenges in each dimension, we aim to understand and resolve your critical concerns and elevate the driving forces of people's behavior throughout your organization. This will, in turn, ensure that organization capabilities, process improvements, or new systems translate to measurable and lasting change.

"Sinclair Group addresses not only a holistic set of integrated best practices, they entrench the behaviors needed to sustain and optimize the improvement... to ultimately yield financial results."
