ARTICLE TEXT:

OMAHA, Neb. — A pair of Omaha-based doctors are the first in Nebraska to offer patients the world’s most advanced technology in vaginal rejuvenation treatments featuring the breakthrough Juliet™ laser treatment system.

Dr. Rebecca McCrery and Dr. Emily Kean at Adult & Pediatric Urology in Omaha, Neb. provide state-of-the-art feminine treatments for laxity, dryness, leakage and more. While continuing to offer traditional treatment methods, their new Juliet™ system is unique—offering gentle, outpatient procedures and allowing for advanced treatment of these symptoms.

“We like to be on the forefront of treatment options for our patients,” said Dr. McCrery. “Hormonal therapies are often used to treat vaginal conditions, but not every patient is an ideal candidate for hormones. I foresee the Juliet being a game changer for many patients.”

With the Juliet™ from Zarin Medical, women suffering from intimate problems can regain elasticity and lubrication, reduce some types of urinary leakage, and reduce or eliminate feminine itching and irritation. Some women with these symptoms may experience painful intercourse, which can limit their intimate relationships. Women in the Omaha area now have a gentle solution to these issues with the Juliet™ vaginal rejuvenation laser treatment at Adult & Pediatric Urology.

The Juliet™ laser treatment is a fast, painless and in-office procedure that can yield noticeable results in one to three treatments with low risk of side effects and minimal downtime. The procedure takes less than 15 minutes, can be performed without anesthesia, and does not require incisions or sutures. The new Juliet™ laser feminine rejuvenation treatment has also proven more effective than traditional hormone treatments in many situations. For many symptoms, it is much less invasive and less painful than more traditional alternative surgical procedures.

“It is important to us that the device be both safe and effective. Having used this therapy for over six months, we are convinced of both,” said Dr. McCrery. “Until now, we have had limited vaginal condition treatment options for dryness, pain, irritation, painful intercourse, discharge, etc. While these issues are not life-threatening, they can really compromise a woman’s quality of life.”

Now, women in Omaha currently suffering from these intimate problems can regain elasticity, lubrication, as well as reduce and eliminate itching, irritation, painful intercourse, and leakage. The new Juliet™ vaginal rejuvenation laser treatment is only available in Nebraska at Adult & Pediatric Urology.
