Miami professional soccer twins partner with Pittsburgh recording artist

PITTSBURGH, Pa. --Calvin and Conner Rezendez, identical twin professional soccer players of Davie, Fla., have teamed up with up and coming Pittsburgh, Pa., recording artist, Jordan York, to produce a song and video detailing their journey into their professional soccer career. The title track and video, "We Can Dream", will be available to watch on YouTube and for download on iTunes beginning Wednesday, Sept. 27, 2016.

The Rezende twins, the only identical twins playing for the same professional soccer team in the United States, have trained and played soccer in Spain, Brazil and Italy before signing their first professional contract with one of the North American Soccer League's newest expansions, Miami FC.

"We feel connecting with [Jordan] York will help us spread our story and some of our hardships during our path to becoming pros," the Rezende twins said. "I think anybody would feel blessed to have a recording artist rap about their story."

York has been coast to coast spreading his message in music for the past five years and has amassed a great cult following in the process, he was excited to pick up the Rezende twins story because he could relate to their struggle and wants to inspire people to reach for their dreams

"Music and sports go hand in hand," York explains. "Being able to tell a story through music is a beautiful thing and this story is so inspiring it needs to be heard. I can relate because I came from nothing and I've spent countless hours struggling as they have."

The Rezende twins are currently enrolled at St. Francis University full-time and are expected to graduate in May of 2017 with degrees in business and organizational leadership.
