This year's conference is being held in the shadow of an unprecedented expansion of terror. At the beginning of 2016, ISIS has the support of 43 different terror groups in 15 different countries from Libya to Russia and across the globe. ISIS is only one International Terror Group – there are many more.

“One World – many threats” will feature speakers that cast light on how the US must react to understand and confront this threat. Exciting presentations on how to defeat terror groups online, to international global best practices from countries such as Israel will also be presented - 6 speakers in two days, with a group of hand selected vendors covering 35 different Homeland Security technologies and products will make this the most important conference ever.
