Topic of remarks by Ms. Gross: Race Trekking 2017 – Not a Walk in the Park

The journey of understanding “race” in America and addressing racial inequalities is arduous. Racism is persistent. Only we, the people, can ensure that it does not prevail. Hear Elaine Gross, President of ERASE Racism, reflect on fighting structural racism on Long Island in 2017.

About ERASE Racism: ERASE Racism is a regional, nonprofit civil rights organization, founded in 2001 and based on Long Island, New York. It leads public policy advocacy campaigns and related initiatives to promote racial equity in areas, such as public school education, housing, and community development. It engages in a variety of research, education and consulting activities to address institutional and structural racism.

ERASE Racism achieves its objectives through utilizing research; educating the public; policy advocacy; legal actions; and civic engagement of Long Island leaders, community organizations, and community residents of various ages and backgrounds. It also forms partnerships with other Long Island, regional and national institutions and coalitions to help make the goal of racial equity a priority throughout the country.
