"It's an honor to be recognized by both PBJ and the Oregonian as a leading company in our community," said Jon Thomsen, Atmosera's Chief Executive Officer. "We as employees are the most important assets to our continued success. Our philosophy is to focus on our employees and on our customers; that if we focus on our employees, they will focus on our customers and deliver an incredible, reliable service. It's really that simple."

Atmosera's recent recognitions includes:

- Oregon's Most Admired Companies for 2016 – For twelve years, Portland Business Journal has surveyed 3,000 CEOs annually across Oregon and southwest Washington to select the companies they most admire in the region. Atmosera was recognized as an honoree in the Technology & Technology Manufacturing category.
- Oregon's Top Workplaces for 2016 – This is the fifth year the Oregonian/OregonLive has recognized the Top Workplaces in Oregon and southwest Washington from over 1,000 companies. Atmosera came in at number 43 out of the top 100.

Atmosera is growing and currently has several openings across a variety of functions related to the engineering, deployment and management of high availability, mission critical managed Azure services. Atmosera is always looking for talented, creative individuals looking to be part of something relevant where attitude, expertise, customer skills and work ethic directly translate into organizational impact and career success.
