TransVault Bolsters Its Leadership with Strategic New Hires

Leading Archive Migration ISV Strengthens Its Management Team

Clevedon, UK – (February 7, 2017) – TransVault, the leading developer of email archive migration solutions, today announced its significant investment in key new hires aimed at strengthening the company’s existing capabilities, products & services roadmap and continued support of their growing strategic alliance partnerships.

“After 10 years in a leadership position for archive migration, I knew it was time to invest in a new quorum of executives who would help me continue to lead, whilst finding new paths for innovation. The team I’ve assembled are bright, passionate, exceptionally talented and I am excited for this new phase in our business”, commented Barney Haye, chief executive officer, TransVault.

Darwin Lee joins TransVault as Chief Technology Officer and will lead the company’s research, development and support teams. Lee’s collaborative spirit and over 20 years of dedicated IT product management and software expertise were essential elements when seeking to fill this post, positioning him as a more than just a respected leader but a strategic investment in TransVault’s technological advancement.

“The modernization and enhancement of technological solutions that handle the complex task of policing big data and how its surfaced is a significant part of my career scope and I am thrilled to be imparting my experience with the talented engineers that have kept TransVault innovative and leading”, said, Darwin Lee, chief technology officer at TransVault.

Additionally, Spencer Wilkinson joins TransVault and Lee's team in a completely new role for the business as Director of Product Strategy. Wilkinson, a Microsoft Certified Professional since 2015, previously worked for a leading Microsoft Gold Partner, as well as Airbus and Airbnb where he always had his eye on technology and innovation. Wilkinson will spearhead TransVault's future product strategy and push the business in new directions.

Finally, Jon Garrett joins TransVault as, Director of Partner Support Services. Garrett will lead partner on-boarding, support, and will work to empower TransVault's Performance Partner community. His remit will include optimizing the partner ecosystem's ability to deliver the highest quality email archive migration experience for all customers, by ensuring they have the access to our exceptional level of service and support engineers.

"My mission is to ensure that our products and services continue to evolve so that we both increase our partners' ability to lead in their migration practice through revenue & customer satisfaction, and find new avenues for services growth and profitability. Spencer and Jon will both be critical in realizing this goal", continued Lee.
