About Five Acres

Five Acres recently celebrated its 128 years of uninterrupted service to Southern California caring for vulnerable children and their families. Originally founded in downtown LA as an orphanage, Five Acres initial mission was simply to provide safety to children who had no home. In time, the mission expanded to also focus on the well-being of their clients and caring for the mental and emotional health of children who were increasingly coming to them as a result of abuse or neglect. Having grown to an agency caring for nearly 8,500 children and family members annually across five counties, Five Acres now strives for permanency – a permanent, loving home – for all those in their care. The three pillars of safety, well-being and permanency provide the framework for all of Five Acres’ current programs and they guide their steps in the future as they continue seeking even more effective means of caring for children and families in crisis. For over 128 years Five Acres has been committed to preserving successful childcare programs and developing innovative services for children and families in crisis. With over 100,000 clients served since its founding in 1888, Five Acres currently cares for 8,500 children and families annually, across five counties including Los Angeles.
