

Vacuum Your Home Without Lifting a Finger Thanks to Chinavasion.

Chinavasion has just launched several of the latest smart robotic vacuum cleaners making autonomous cleaning cheap and easy for all.

In today's world, robot vacuum cleaners offer an innovative way to keep any property tidy. Loved by people of all ages and backgrounds, these smart home systems takeover the boring, repetitive and time-consuming chore of cleaning.

Now people can have more time to spend with family and friends, engaging in fun past-times or just relaxing.

When smart robotic vacuum cleaners were first introduced to the world they were big, noisy and expensive, now they are cheap, quiet and efficient household helpers.

"As these home cleaners have gotten smarter and better the demand for them has increased which has resulted in greater competition and in cheaper prices to accompany the better features." advised Ms. Rose Li, PR Manager at Chinavasion.

This rapid development and competition has brought about the paradigm of better features and lower prices which is typical of hi-tech products. Chinavasion, being located in "Chinas silicon valley" and renowned manufacturing hub of Shenzhen is well placed to exploit this market.

Chinavasion has added several state of the art smart robotic vacuum cleaners to its smart home range of products which is fantastic news for the tech savvy consumers looking or resellers looking to clean up with big savings.

Ms. Rose Li, stated that, "Robotic vacuum cleaners have been around for a while but are now becoming readily available and accepted within our society. With the rising availability of affordable high-end smart vacuum cleaners, we have experienced a boom in demand among our customers for these affordable smart home systems."

In today's world, the popularity of smart cleaning systems is rising significantly due to the busy life-styles of many young people. With busy schedules, people have little time left and are reluctant to waste time with cleaning and other regular house hold tasks.

Supporting an abundance of smart features, the latest robotic vacuum cleaners available at Chinavasion are capable of thoroughly cleaning any property. Intelligent mapping features make sure that these smart home systems never miss a spot and intelligent cliff and IR sensors are there to prevent them bumping into furniture or toppling down the stairs.

Ms. Li added, "The ability to control your robot vacuum cleaner via a smartphone allows you to clean your home at any moment. Additionally, the smart application lets you set specific times and cleaning routines. Even if you're away for a longer period of time, these robotic cleaners will constantly keep your home tidy."

Chinavasion's robot vacuum cleaners are ideal for any person that lives a busy life or for the elderly that that may struggle to perform daily manual household chores. Additionally, these automatic cleaners offer a perfect cleaning solution for people that suffer from asthma or any other type of allergy.

Sourcing manager at Chinavasion, Eric Yu, stated, "As China's leading electronics wholesaler, it is our aim to introduce the Western market to the broad offering of affordable smart home appliances that are available from China."

Chinavasion has over 10 years experience delivering the latest wholesale gadgets and consumer electronics from China. With in-house quality control and express global shipping customers from around the globe can take advantage of top quality electronics at wholesale prices.