JUSTICE FOR IMMIGRANTS

Overview of policies, laws,
and how Colorado lawyers
can get involved

Rollin Braswell Fisher LLC (RBF Law) and the Rocky Mountain Immigrant Advocacy Network (RMIAN) are partnering to provide a one hour presentation on the new Executive Orders and policy directives in immigration law, and highlight ways that Colorado lawyers can get involved in working for justice for immigrants.

RBF Law is a commercial litigation firm seeking to empower and engage lawyers who typically do not practice in the public interest arena but are interested in social justice issues. RMIAN is a nonprofit dedicated to providing immigration legal services to individuals in immigration detention in Colorado, as well as to children throughout the state.

Attendees of the presentation will come away with a general understanding of legislative framework and processes of the system to enable them to provide assistance to the local immigrant community.
