

PhoneOwner.US Website Launches Today With the Most Comprehensive Online Telephone Number Directory of Both Personal and Business Phone Listings

The New National Telephone Number Directory Contains More Phone Numbers and Phone Owner Related Information than Whitepages or Yellow Pages

PhoneOwner.us, the national telephone number directory, today announces the launch of its website. This ground-breaking new phone directory includes every residential, person, business and professional landline or mobile phone listing active in the United States today. It is the single largest online collection of telephone numbers available anywhere.

Traditional phone number directory websites like Whitepages and Yellow Pages offer only partial owner and address information. Other online telephone directories include only a single address record for each number that is often many years old. As more people switch to mobile phones from land lines, the ability to show the owner's address history, historical records and related information is increasingly important to finding the right person and their calling location. Similarly, people who search for the phone numbers of small businesses, often want more than standard customer service lines. They are trying to identify the source of unwanted telemarketing calls and want to find the business owner – not just a call center name.

Surpassing traditional phone directories, PhoneOwner.us combines all recent phone number records including the current phone owners' names and address history into a single, easy-to-use online directory. This is truly the most comprehensive telephone number directory of both personal and business phone listings available online. Each listing includes the current owner's full name, current address, business associations and all available historical records for the number. The detailed premium reports add important details for business and personal background research such as date of birth, other associated phone numbers, relative's names and recent neighbors.

Phone number searches can easily be completed by visiting PhoneOwner.us today.

About PhoneOwner.US

PhoneOwner.US (<https://phoneowner.us/>), the national telephone number directory, is the most complete national telephone directory available anywhere, including landline and mobile phone numbers for both residential and business listings. The site offers a phone number search engine that allows you to find the name, address and related information about the owner – commonly called a reverse phone lookup.
