

“Notch, the Rescued Dolphin”

BIO AUTHOR

Martina Wing is a manta ray and marine life advocate, educator, author, and underwater photographer located in Kailua-Kona on the Big Island of Hawaii.

Trained as an environmental engineer, Martina fell in love with the ocean in 1998 after scuba diving with manta rays for the first time. Changing her life to dedicate time to the water, Martina co-owns the underwater production company “Manta Ray Advocates” and co-founded with her husband James “Hawaii Ocean Watch”, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

Martina has devoted her life to educating and inspiring others on how to honor, protect, and support our oceans and ecosystem.
