ProAct Safety Welcomes New Senior Consultant

Chuck J. Douros has accepted the senior consultant position with ProAct Safety after an extensive history as an environmental health and safety director and consultant for the manufacturing, construction and agriculture industries.

(The Woodlands, TX – September 26, 2017) ProAct Safety, a global safety consultancy and pioneer in leadership and safety excellence strategies, announced the addition of a new senior consultant, Chuck J. Douros. Chuck previously worked with ProAct Safety while employed with Ralcorp.

Shawn Galloway, President of ProAct Safety, explains, “I had the opportunity to work closely with Chuck on an extensive engagement where he was the client implementing areas of improvement including strategy, safety culture, leadership development and behavior-based safety. I was so impressed with his leadership ability to influence change with the executive and line-employee levels and his understanding of what it takes to achieve and sustain safety excellence, I knew one day when the time was right, I wanted him on our team. We are fortunate this opportunity has finally come and I’m excited for the future and confident our clients will recognize the value he brings immediately.”

Douros says, “Just as I encourage others to pursue excellence in their safety journey, I’ve done the same by joining ProAct Safety. As a former client, I’ve had the opportunity to implement worthwhile organizational change to companies all over the United States. Now I have the opportunity to expand that influence globally, using my field experience and safety acumen to reach all levels of organizations interested in improving their own performance and culture.”
