NEW YORK, NY October 2, 2017 – Tech in Motion NYC announced Danny Saad of Dom & Tom as “Best Tech Manager” for its Third Annual Timmy Awards, which recognizes the top technology workplaces. The tech community and an expert panel chose Saad from a notable finalist list including managers from Justworks, The MET and Work & Co, as well as the runner-up Caren Maio from Nestio. Tech in Motion recognized Danny Saad’s work at Dom & Tom, a digital product development agency, in front of more than 300 local technology influencers.

“We were excited to award Danny Saad 2017 Best Tech Manager at the New York City Timmys,” states Mandy Walker, Director of Marketing at Tech in Motion and Motion Recruitment Partners. “Since launching the Timmy Awards in 2015, we’ve been bringing the community together to celebrate leaders that go above and beyond to build the most encouraging work environments for tech professionals. “Danny fosters a community of integrity, mutual respect, professional discipline, and transparency for all production departments at Dom & Tom with his passion for guidance and coaching,” said Dushan Perera, Associate Director of Mobile Development at Dom & Tom.

Amid presentations from Founder and CEO Reza Chowdhury of AlleyWatch and Kara Chesal, Senior Director on the Computer Science Education team at the NYC Department of Education, the 2017 NYC’s Timmy Awards recognized winners across four award categories to bring the spotlight to the diversity and growth of the city, highlighting local tech startups, workplace diversity, management as well as work culture.

The Timmys are presented every year in tech hub cities across North America, including Boston, San Francisco, and Toronto. Previous winners have included innovators such as Jet.com, LearnVest, Venmo, TripAdvisor, Gilt, Constant Contact, Casper, and Instacart.
