

Press release

Dutch company Iperion Life Sciences Consultancy acquires Regulatory Consultancy Practice of US based Identifica

Iperion has set out to become one of the global players in regulatory consultancy

Iperion Life Sciences Consultancy (Iperion) has acquired US based Identifica's regulatory consulting practice. The acquisition is a logical step in Iperion's ambition to become a global specialists in regulatory consultancy. The consultancy and related regulatory services will be available via offices in Netherlands and Boston (USA) in support of European, US and Canadian based life sciences customers. As a result of the acquisition expertise is now available in support of both industry as well as regulators.

Frits Stulp, Managing Director of Iperion Life Sciences Consultancy: "We are expanding in portfolio as well as in geographical area as it is clear that the market for regulatory consultancy is a global one. Iperion has set out to become one of the key players in this field and this acquisition is another step in this ambition. We look forward to build on the work done by Vada A. Perkins in increasing interoperability between regulators and pharma through regulatory convergence, health informatics and international data standards."

Identifica LLC, headed by Vada A. Perkins, will retain its focus in the informatics and technology domain as a data management company to offer solutions for data quality, provenance, and validation throughout the lifecycle. "I have had the opportunity to work closely with Iperion prior to the acquisition and look forward to the transfer and convergence of Identifica's domain expertise to support Iperion's elite team of regulatory experts", says Vada Perkins.

About Iperion Life Sciences Consultancy

Iperion Life Science Consultancy is a Netherlands based provider of consultancy and services in the area of (regulatory) information management in life sciences. The mission is to enable the life sciences industry and regulators to innovate, to improve business processes and to optimize the supply chain leading to faster and more efficient delivery of medicines (and its associated information) to health care professionals and patients. Through the delivery of consultancy services in the analysis, implementation and optimization of complex cross functional regulatory information systems and processes, Iperion helps organizations achieve an increase in interoperability, data consistency and regulatory compliance.

About Identifica LLC

Identifica LLC (based in US) is an independent data management solutions company supporting value-based business drivers for efficient and effective decision making.

The company support businesses through data management assessments, intelligence, and solutions to optimize their data and process strategies for improved business efficiency and more effective decision making from concept to execution.

The product ID-LifeCycle™ powered by Pragmatic Data is a robust G-PLDM™ (Global Product Lifecycle Data Management) platform purposefully built for validation, versioning, traceability, and management of all types of data and formats (i.e. structured and unstructured) utilizing robust internal and external validation rules.

Contact

To learn more about this merger, please contact
Frits Stulp, Managing Director of Iperion Life Sciences Consultancy:
+31 6 52727351
frits.stulp@iperion.nl