A MESSAGE FROM BRIAN

Hello! My name is Brian Huxford, and I am honored to be the Founder and President of The Navigator Leadership Corporation!

I created Navigator to assist organizations in the development of their employees. As I look back on my life's journey, I have been very blessed to have had great coaches, teachers and mentors that have helped to develop me in both business and life!

As a military veteran, entrepreneur, community leader, father of three and husband of 20 years, I can tell you from personal experience that continued education and personal development are two of the most valuable gifts you could ever give to another person. Yet all too often I see leadership education being offered only to top executives and senior leaders.

My purpose for Navigator is to offer affordable leadership training for all levels of an organization. That's why I created a systematic approach that begins consulting with an organization's top leaders to assist them in discovering what leadership training is needed for their culture. We call this our Mastermind Group.

Once training goals have been established and necessary coursework has been chosen and agreed upon, the next step is to provide training at each level of the organization's infrastructure, all the way down to the new-hire process.

This systematic approach ensures that everyone in the organization is educated and on the same page with the philosophies, values and communication styles of the organization, thus developing people, creating vibrant organizations and strong communities!

THE JOHN MAXWELL TEAM

As Navigator was being formed, we sought out and invested in the best leadership resources available. It was clear from the beginning that The John Maxwell Team was the perfect fit for us and for our clients. The investment Navigator made with The John Maxwell Team allows us to offer proven and effective solutions to our clients.

LIFO® - LIFE ORIENTATIONS

It often appears that the majority of organizations we encounter suffer from poor communication in the workplace. Navigator and its team have used LIFO® principles, systems and tools for over a decade to assist organizations in improving workplace communication. As communication improves, trust, teamwork, morale and productivity all increase. Below you will find a summary of how LIFO® can work for your organization.

THE NEW GOLDEN RULE

“Do unto others as they wish to be done unto.”

Imagine an organization where every team member knows the way they like to do things and recognizes the ways that each of their colleagues prefer.

That's what differentiates the LIFO® Method from other approaches. It starts with learning your individual style preferences and those of others. Then, enormous productivity improvements can be realized, using common language to communicate with people in their preferred style.

This approach leads to understanding the differences in how people work, how they receive information, and how they deliver information. Our goal is to get teams talking, providing feedback to each other, and working to understand their behavioral styles in order to capitalize not only on their own strengths, but also on the strengths of those around them. LIFO® is a unique approach and sustainable in organizations.

The LIFO® Method begins with one of nine surveys. The results generate the individual report interpreted with the guidance of a certified LIFO® practitioner. Six basic strategies are then offered for individuals and teams to achieve high performance.
