ValvTechnologies' Nuclear Industry Director to Present at 2019 International Nuclear Obsolescence Utilities Group Meeting

HOUSTON, TX. – ValvTechnologies' Nuclear Industry Director, Bill Henwood, will be a featured speaker at the International Nuclear Utilities Obsolescence Group (INUOG) Annual Meeting on March 18-19, 2019. Held in Madrid, Spain, the fourth annual event is organized for nuclear utilities interested in being more proactive and collaborative in addressing obsolescence challenges.

Henwood and Dan Cunningham, Nuclear Fleet Procurement Engineering Manager for Duke Energy, are slated to co-deliver their presentation, "Application Obsolescence: Duke Energy Small Bore Program," on the concluding day of the meeting on March 19.

"We are honored to be invited to present at the INUOG event," said Henwood. "Attendees will have an opportunity to get a closer look at the process improvement, technology overview and solutions achieved when Duke Energy and ValvTechnologies collaborated on a small bore valve replacement project."
