

About Us

LivBar empowers active humans to nourish their bodies as well as the planet. LivBar is innovating the nutrition bar category through creating handmade energy bars that don't melt or freeze, with a unique texture that could be easily crumbled as a topping or used in recipes to enhance the nutritional value and flavor. Another unique aspect of LivBar that sets them apart in this category is that all products are self-manufactured at their own solar-powered facility and using the industry's only compostable wrapper. Each bar is USDA-certified organic, low-allergen, plant-based, made with superfood ingredients, and hand-baked, giving it a crunchy and chewy texture. Founded in 2012 by Jan Johansen, nutrition and fitness expert, LivBar is produced and manufactured in Salem, Oregon.
