

News Release
For immediate release
October 12, 2021

South Jordan, UT- James Brenner Sculpture is installing new largescale public artwork at the Daybreak Library in South Jordan, UT.

This project involves a collaboration with poet Emily Dyer Barker and the local community to create graphically designed poetry-inlaid benches along with monumental steel sculptures referencing the mountains and environmental landscape in the region and is intended to engage visitors to the library and create a gathering space for exchanging ideas and strengthening community bonds.

For more information, email jim@jamesbrenner.com.