

Avoco Secure is rated the BEST BUY Document Rights Management Software and is AWARDED 35 out of 35 Stars by SC Magazine.

LONDON - 16/10/2008 – For the second time in a row Avoco’s secure2trust achieves an SC Magazine Best Buy rating in an extensive group test. The Best Buy award is given to products with outstanding performance across a broad range of criteria.

“SC magazine picked upon a key point for document protection provided by secure2trust, namely the direct integration into user applications, making it easy for users to protect a document, making the product effective and effortless to users,” stated Gerry O’Brien, CEO of Avoco Secure, “Importantly, SC Magazine also stated that they could not find anything negatives against secure2trust. This test result is reinforced by analyst comment that secure2trust can provide organisations with a level of protection for content that cannot be provided by other types of applications.”

Avoco Secure products enable you to make paper work-flows, electronic; saving time and money, and meeting green and compliance requirements. These solutions are supplied to our customers, where security, legal enforceability, privacy and access control to information are paramount.

“We are pleased to yet again obtain the top accolade in an important and well respected group comparison test.” said Susan Morrow, Director R&D, “This win was achieved prior to the release in the next few weeks of new and significant secure2trust product features. These will further extend Avoco’s lead in the document access control and content protection sector.”

Avoco Secure products control who can access the content of documents or emails and what they can do with that content after access has been allowed. Avoco products use an individual’s (or groups) identity and other forms of authentication, to apply security policies to control content access and use, or to digitally sign that content. It does this by encrypting the content, authenticating the users and controlling what they can do with that content.

secure2trust’s extensive and unique access controls are also able to extend Microsoft® Active Directory Rights Management document controls.

In addition with Avoco Secure’s products Word and Excel documents, can be digitally signed and time stamped, meeting the highest levels of legal enforceability, enabling banks to use Microsoft® Office for ecommerce.

Avoco Secure is an innovation company whose areas of focus are applications for security, information assurance and privacy, which enable end-to-end trust and securing information in the environment beyond.
