Farm Chemicals International Brings FCI Trade Summit to Accra Summit Hosts Representatives from All Aspects of International Crop Input Market

WILLOUGHBY, OH (March 7, 2012) - Farm Chemicals International magazine has announced the FCI Trade Summit will launch the 2012 season with a show in Ghana's capital city of Accra 8-9 May 2012. Hosted at the Accra International Conference Centre, the summit will host representatives from all aspects of the international crop input market with an emphasis on industry growth in West Africa. Traders, chemical and fertilizer manufacturers and formulators will have the opportunity to meet and network with agriculture input retailers, as well as distributors and investors in the industry.

"We are proud to bring some of the world's leading crop input producers to West Africa at a time when crop productivity is crucial for the region's export economy and food security," says Eric Davis, publisher of Farm Chemicals International. "We have been fortunate to align key trading companies and distributors in our past events in Nairobi and Johannesburg, and we are looking forward to helping West Africa gain access to the technologies they need at the time they need them most."

The FCI Trade Summit features a trade show with delegates and exhibitors from more than 25 countries. In addition to a full trade floor, the summit also includes key program presentations encouraging industry education, market trends and business growth strategies in West Africa. The summit will also provide opportunities for all attendees to coordinate private business meetings and network through daily scheduled breaks, receptions and access to the delegate lounge.

Registration for the summit will offer delegates two days of programming and trade show access, as well as post-show access to speaker presentations and delegate list attendee information. Special registration rates are available for companies or guests from Africa or the Middle East. Additional shows are planned for Miami, United States, in August and a third show in Southeast Asia in December.
