Valdata Releases Cloud Version of the Popular CMS Chemical Management System

Valdata Systems Announces the Release of the Cloud Version of its Popular Recipe Manager and Chemical Management Software Packages

March 7, 2013: Valdata Systems announces the release of the cloud version of its popular chemical management system.

The cloud version is available for both Recipe Manager as a stand-alone and for the entire CMS package including recipe/formulation, warehousing/inventory, manufacturing execution and LIMS.

The new cloud version of the software provides customers with two choices – purchasing the software and hosting it locally on their own network, or subscribing to a hosted service for a monthly fee.

“The ability to utilize the complete system for a relatively small monthly fee has enormous implications for companies who are considering CMS but want to “get their feet wet” before committing to the project.” Tom Winter, President, Valdata Systems

Benefits of the Cloud Version

- Cost. The overall cost of implementing the cloud version is significantly lower than hosting the system locally. For smaller companies who are interested in the benefits of CMS but may not have the resources to invest in hosting the system themselves, the cloud version provides a cost-effective way to gain the benefits without the up-front expense
- Commitment. Because the cloud version requires very little up-front investment and requires a monthly subscription vs. purchasing the software outright, it provides the ability to try the system and experience its benefits before making an enterprise-wide commitment.
