Courtyard Denver International Airport Hotel Reaches New Heights With New Meeting Deal

Organizers can take advantage of Denver meeting rooms with new promotion that includes special rewards such as gift cards, iPads and 5 percent off master account charges

Denver, CO – Event planners looking for Denver Airport meeting rooms are clear for take-off thanks to the latest deal from the Courtyard Denver International Airport.

The Sky's the Limit Meeting Deal offers organizers a special incentive that makes lightly salted bags of peanuts and airplane fare look positively grounded. Organizers that plan meetings at the Courtyard Denver Airport can pick one of three first-class rewards if their event generates $3,000 in meeting and group guest room revenue. Perks include:

- A new Apple iPad to help plan and organize future meetings.
- 5 percent off the master account charges.
- $250 American Express gift card that can be used virtually anywhere.

If this deal doesn't make event organizers feel like they're soaring at 30,000 feet already, it potentially gets better as meetings gain more "elevation."

Actualize more than $5,000 in total meeting and group guest room revenue and meeting planners can select two of the rewards, while meetings that actualize $10,000 or more get all three benefits.

Event planners also will enjoy triple Marriott Rewards® points or get a one-year upgrade to Platinum Elite status. With so many perks, this deal will have event planners flying high as they enjoy some of the best Denver meeting rooms around.

The Denver International Airport Hotel features five meeting rooms in its fleet. In total, 2,900 square feet of meeting and event space is available, with the largest offering enough room to seat 150 individuals comfortably. Each of these well-decorated spaces create a professional atmosphere and are supported by the Denver airport hotel's team of dedicated event staff, who work tirelessly to ensure that each meeting takes off without any complications. Like air traffic controllers, these meeting planners help the flow of meetings and troubleshoot any technical issues that groups might have with audio and visual equipment, setup and more.

After the meeting, guests will touch down in spacious hotel rooms, designed with the comfort of travelers in mind. Each of the Denver Airport hotel rooms presents plenty of space for guests to stretch their wings. Plush beds with fluffy pillows ensure a great night's sleep, while complimentary high-speed Internet access and LCD TVs provide plenty of entertainment.

Take meetings up, up, and away with the Sky's the Limit deal at the Courtyard Denver Airport Hotel. To make meeting reservations, contact Tim Eagan at 1-303-709-0493 or tim.eagan@marriott.com.
