Overview

In this gripping doomsday thriller "ripped from the headlines," Iran has threatened to destroy Israel while developing the nuclear capability to do so.

Struck by a medical emergency, Israel's Prime Minister falls unconscious just as military action is needed to stop Iran's nukes.

History is now up to 35 Israelis aboard the Dolphin – a powerful submarine armed with nuclear-tipped ballistic missiles.

Ship unity is crucial to mission success, but deep conflicts rise to the surface among crewmembers who are ethnically diverse and ideologically divided.

Editorial Reviews

NY Blueprint - Alan Zeitlin

"The Last Israelis"...is gripping, chilling and...should be brought to the silver screen. It brings to mind elements of "Crimson Tide," "The Hunt For Red October" and "U-571." The claustrophobic effects are there as you'll feel like you're on the sub with the world on the brink of disaster. Don't start reading this novel if you have somewhere to be. You'll probably miss your appointment... [The novel is] a must-read.

Meet the Author

Noah Beck has been telling stories and writing creatively since he was a child growing up on the West Coast of the USA. Despite early literary leanings, his two Ivy League degrees (or, more precisely, the debt that accompanied them) diverted him to over a decade of corporate jobs. He kept his sanity with extensive journaling and globetrotting to over fifty countries, while maintaining a large collection of story ideas waiting to be developed when he finally decided to turn his real passion into a career.

It could easily happen

It could easily happen.

What if your country was about to be attacked, possibly annihilated, what if you held your nation's last means of defense, its final means of retaliation, and what if you are isolated, cut off, with no way to confirm the orders that you are given, and even those orders are confusing and contradictory.

This premise was made into a movie, Crimson Tide, with Gene Hackman and Denzel Washington. There is just one major difference: Your country is too small to survive a concerted nuclear, chemical and conventional attack.
