

Selection.com President Says Criminals Don't Make it Easy

A court employee who was recently arrested in a child sex investigation worked in the DWI court with a felony DWI conviction on record. Selection.com President, James Boeddeker, says companies should beware; criminals will not make it easy to find their records.

(CONROE, TEXAS)

This story was originally reported on 07/08/2013 by Fox 26 news. This Site makes no warranties or representations in connection therewith.

According to Fox 26 news, a Montgomery County court employee has been arrested in a child sex investigation case. Investigators say they discovered 50 year old Donald Edward Huse searching online for sex with a child. Officials from the Montgomery County District Attorney's office say Huse agreed to meet up with a 16 year old boy at the courthouse in a restroom for sex...that boy was actually an investigator. Assistant District Attorney Warren Diepraam also says the other strange twist to this story is Huse's job. He worked as a staffer in Montgomery County's DWI court in Conroe but arrest records show he has a felony DWI conviction from 2009. Investigators are not sure how he slipped through the cracks...However, while working for the county he only used his middle name.

James Boeddeker, President of Selection.com, a leading provider of criminal background checks and pre-employment drug screenings stated, "Criminals won't make it easy to find their records. Often times, they'll go by a middle name or completely different name to prevent companies from finding their criminal records. It's important to run criminal background checks under a person's given name; most records are entered in at the time of arrest with the information from their driver's license."

Fox 26 also found records with the Texas Education Agency that show Huse was a teacher in the Spring Independent School District. His teaching certificate was suspended in 2011 for 3 years after a series of arrests including the DWI, deadly conduct, and evading arrest. Huse is charged with online solicitation of a minor and is being held on a $250,000 bond at the Montgomery County Jail.

Selection.com was started in 1991 in Cincinnati, Ohio. Selection.com provides a full range of employee screening background check reports including criminal background checks, employment verifications, education verifications, drug screenings, and professional license verifications.

For further questions or to schedule an interview, contact Carl Brown at 513-522-8764.

Photo used with permission from iStockPhoto.

“
It's important to run criminal background checks under a person's given name...
”