MDL 2428: In Re: Fresenius Granuflo/Naturalyte Dialysate Products Liability Litigation

LEAD CASE NUMBER 13-md-2428

These actions share factual issues arising from allegations that Plaintiffs suffered injury or death caused by the use of GranuFlo and/or Naturalyte products during hemodialysis, which allegedly may cause metabolic alkalosis in patients resulting in low blood pressure, hypokalemia, hypoxemia, hypercapnia, cardiac arrhythmia, or cardiopulmonary arrest. All the actions involve factual questions relating to whether GranuFlo and Naturalyte were defectively designed or manufactured, whether Fresenius, the manufacturer of these dialysate products, knew or should have known of the alleged propensity of these products to cause injury and whether it provided adequate instructions and warnings with these products. These cases have been assigned to Judge Douglas P Woodlock.
