To Every Tribe Moves Into Strategic South Texas Property

Hundreds will be launched to mission fields from Chachalaca Bend

LOS FRESNOS, Texas – To Every Tribe is moving in at Chachalaca Bend! The generosity of To Every Tribe’s friends and supporters has provided the funds necessary to close on the second phase of the strategic Chachalaca Bend property. This week To Every Tribe in Los Fresnos, Texas closed on the classroom and office space necessary for expanding the ministry. With training in the Center for Pioneer Church Planting set to begin in a little over a month, To Every Tribe is wasting no time in getting the buildings ready for missionary training.

To Every Tribe’s founder, David Sitton, is thrilled with the progress. “Because friends of our ministry want to be part of something bigger than themselves, we have made another significant step forward in reaching the unreached with the gospel. A church and a donor stepped forward with $50,000 donations each, and there were many others who made significant contributions. We are excited to see what happens next.”

Moving into the offices and classrooms is just the beginning of a big vision for the 50 acres purchased at Chachalaca Bend. To Every Tribe has begun discussions with a local architect regarding plans for the development of the property into a world-class training center for missionaries going to remote corners of the earth with the good news of Jesus. Chachalaca Bend will be a place where hundreds of death-embracing millennials will be trained and launched to people who have no access to the gospel.

To Every Tribe began looking for additional classroom and office facilities because of the exponential growth in the CPCP. This fall, 28 interns and their families will call Los Fresnos “home”, almost 4 times the number of interns in the CPCP three years ago. The Chachalaca Bend property provides more space to sustain current growth and allows for expanded mobilizing and training opportunities for To Every Tribe in the coming years.

The facilities on the Chachalaca Bend property include a lodge (with a conference room big enough for 50 and a loft bedroom), a main house (multiple offices for growing CPCP staff, a classroom, and a library), four additional offices to the main house, a second two-bedroom house, two one-bedroom units (two offices), the inn (with 6 bedrooms, a dining area, a kitchen, and a meeting room), and 26 acres of vacant land (with a small pond and gazebo). These buildings and the additional 26 undeveloped acres at Chachalaca Bend make the $1.85 million a bargain purchase price.

While To Every Tribe has taken advantage of this great opportunity at a tremendous sale price, there is still a great need for sacrificial partners to complete the purchase phases of the Chachalaca Bend property. More than $600,000 has been raised toward the $1.85 million purchase price. Another $200,000 must be raised before the end of the year to complete the last phase in the purchase of the entire property.

There are four kinds of ways to participate with To Every Tribe in the expansion of gospel proclamation to unreached people groups: as prayer martyrs who will dedicate themselves to the prayer that the Lord of the harvest will propel risk-taking disciples to his harvest; as financial martyrs who will commit their resources to helping To Every Tribe alleviate its immediate space needs in securing this property; as service martyrs committing time and effort; and as missionary martyrs who are willing to be flung with the gospel to plant churches among the 3 billion who have never heard the good news of Jesus.

Located in Los Fresnos, Texas just 12 miles from the border of Mexico, To Every Tribe Ministries was organized in 2004 as a pioneer church planting ministry that targets unreached people groups with the gospel of Jesus Christ. As a reformed and baptistic mission agency, To Every Tribe is both a training center and sending agency. Each To Every Tribe missionary spends approximately 60% of the internship in classroom studies and 40% in on-the-field training. More than 30 missionaries who have been trained in the Center for Pioneer Church Planting are serving around the world. To Every Tribe exists to extend the worship of Christ among all peoples by mobilizing the church, training disciple makers, and sending missionary teams to plant churches among the unreached.
