European Food Venture Forum
5-6 September 2013

Brussels, 19 July 2013 - On the 5th and 6th of September, the European Food Venture Forum (www.e-unlimited.com/efvf) will take place at the iNANO Center in Aarhus, Denmark. The third edition of the European Food Venture Forum (EFVF) will be an exciting platform for people from all corners of the food industry. This event is going parallel with Aarhus Food Festival, which is the biggest food gathering in Scandinavia with close to 30'000 visitors. Food technologies play an increasingly important role in Europe's commercial and healthcare systems, as population demographics change and political focus shifts to disease prevention and healthy lifestyle.

Emerging companies, investors, industry experts and researchers will all be meeting during the two days company presentations, keynote speeches, discussion panels and one-to-one meetings. The program also contains social activities to give the participants more networking possibilities with key people from the industry.

Jury members, consisting of both investors and industry experts, have selected around 20 of the applying entrepreneurs to present their business/project in eco-innovation, food processing, food safety, health, ingredients, functional food, nutrition, nutraceuticals, self sufficiency, saturation technology, sustainability, and waste management.

Throughout the days, there will be keynote presentations and discussion panels with major players in food industry with focus on everything from "How to develop a project/research into a commercial product" to "Eco aspects and demand in food manufacturing processes".

Arla Foods, DSM Venturing, FoodBest, BASF Venture Capital, Chr Hansen, Inventages Venture Capital, KPMG, Tate & Lyle, and VVT Finland are just a few names of the impressive list of attending investors and industry experts.

Biosyntia – presenting company at last year edition – says about the Forum:

"Europe Unlimited helped us gaining invaluable network and market understanding, which has positioned us very well in current investor discussions."
