

Tulsa, Oklahoma -- Nancy Parsons, President of CDR Assessment Group, Inc. was recently selected as a member of The Alexcel Group, an elite international alliance of highly experienced consultants and executive coaches. “Only those executive consultants who have a proven track record of achieving results for clients and who meet Alexcel’s stringent professional standards are invited to join our alliance. Our members are world class leaders in executive development, team building and organizational development. We help you achieve sustainable success through leadership excellence. Executive coaches and consultants of our international alliance are located in Europe, Asia, and throughout the US” according to the group’s website www.alexcelgroup.com.

Simon Vetter, President of Stand Out and Acting Director of Alexcel Group noted that, “Nancy brings exceptional industry expertise along with the power of CDR’s tool, CDR 3-D suite. She embodies the three pillars that Alexcel Group’s 34 members rely upon among each other to deliver the highest caliber of service— building community, sharing knowledge, and collaboration. Our team can leverage Nancy and CDR’s tremendous value to become an even greater resource for our clients.”

California based Executive Coach, Leadership Expert and Owner of the Center for Transitional Management Barbara McMahan sponsored Nancy’s consideration with the Alexcel Group. According to Barbara, “Nancy’s candidacy for Alexcel was ideal given that the group centers around the importance of strategic partnering with the right people. Nancy is a phenomenal strategic partner with incredible knowledge and expertise. She is a consummate team player and incredible systems thinker, understanding how individuals and teams interact and guiding them on where they need to go.”

Nancy Parsons has served as the president of CDR Assessment Group, Inc. for more than 15 years. The firm’s key service is executive coaching and development using their proprietary assessment tools. In fact, to further their mission, CDR trains and certifies executive coaches to use their assessments to coach leaders of their global clients. CDR certified independent coaches also use CDR’s instruments with their own clients as well. Nancy is an expert in leadership development, executive coaching, talent management, human resources, and assessments (personality, motivational and performance.) She is also a member of EWF International (an executive women’s peer group forum) and on the Executive Committee of Mid-America Government Contractors – MAGIC.

Parsons and CDR are excited and honored with this prestigious acceptance. The company will leverage these connections to continue to provide the highest caliber of leadership development and training.

For more on Nancy Parsons and CDR, please visit <http://www.cdrrassessmentgroup.com>.