

The New "Jim Crow" Is Engrained in American Society

By Clinton Stewart

July 24, 2013

The Trayvon Martin case demonstrates the obvious racism that pervades society in our country. Fifty years ago whites would stalk blacks, and they would be found hanging from a tree. Today, under the guise of the neighborhood watchman, a white man stalks an unarmed 17-year old black youth returning to his father's house and guns him down. How could he get away with that? Because he's white! If the race color were reversed, the black neighborhood watchman would be convicted of capital murder in the first degree; and the prosecution would seek the death penalty.

To the casual observer, the case is simple murder of an innocent kid. But, to the prejudiced mind its complicated because the white has to be somehow not blamed for this killing. In this case, the black kid is the "fall guy" for his own shooting to make sure the white man goes unpunished. None of the jurors can feel for the innocent child who died at the hands of the racist neighborhood watchman. They can only see poor George Zimmerman being inconvenience by the media just for doing his job. This crap is sick!! But, it shows how deeply the new "Jim Crow" is engrained in American society. If you're not white in America, this reality is very plain to see. But, if you're white or you still believe in the establishment its cloudy somehow.