TriCore Reference Laboratories Enlists Renodis to Provide a World-Class Telecom Department

St. Paul, Minn. (July 9, 2013) – Renodis, a leading national provider of fully integrated, outsourced solutions for managing telecommunications, has been chosen by TriCore Reference Laboratories to manage the organization’s complete telecom environment, including all wireline and mobility.

“Partnering with Renodis will further TriCore’s goal of becoming the laboratory of choice for healthcare providers by relieving us of the day-to-day tactical activities of telecom,” says David Jenkins, TriCore’s Chief Information Officer. “Telecom Expense Management (TEM) is helpful but it only solves part of the problem. With Renodis we’ll be able to optimize the financial aspects of our telecom environment while freeing our IT staff to focus on the true essence of our business.”

“This alliance gives Renodis the opportunity to provide support in an area of medicine whose importance is growing in today’s health-reform-minded environment,” says Praba Manivasager, Renodis’ Chief Operating Officer. “By partnering with us, TriCore gains world-class management of its telecom ecosystem plus the ability to devote additional resources to its core business initiatives.”
