He's Not That Complicated a new home study course for women has just been released to the public generating a frenzied buzz of media attention, and prompting an investigative review from ConquerHisHeart.com's Sean Roman.

"Many of our website's female readers report experiencing high levels of stress and anxiety caused by the uncertainty they feel in their relationships," reports ConquerHisHeart.com's Sean Roman. "So, when we were informed about the release of Eric Charles And Sabrina Alexis' new He's Not That Complicated system we were very eager to evaluate the program in order to determine whether it was something we could recommend to help our website visitors gain a better understanding of how men' operate and view relationships."

Sean Roman's He's Not That Complicated review reveals that the system provides customers with a breakdown of all the most common issues women face in relationships, examining the causes of these problems and providing insights on how to avoid them in the future. The insights on how to understand relationships from a man's perspective have led some reader to compare the system to a "crystal ball into a guy's mind".

"One of the things that really impressed us about the He's Not That Complicated system is straight forward approach that Charles and Alexis took to addressing the various issues that end up ruining relationships," says Roman. "The authors provide insights on male psychology that nobody else is talking about, and then they go on to provide simple solutions that can be used to reach a man's heart deeply. As we discussed in our review, these 'male psychology tricks' can be used to get a man to put you first in his mind, so you are a priority, and not just an 'option'. And, one of the things that will undoubtedly appeal to readers is that all of this can be accomplished without the need to change who you are or do anything 'weird'.
