Commonwealth Legal and Ipro Reveal the “Everyday” Technology Solution for Law Firms.

TORONTO, ON, CANADA – August 19, 2013 – COMMONWEALTH LEGAL, Canada’s only ISO 9001:2008 quality-certified service provider for evidence management and litigation support solutions, officially announced today the launch of the Ipro Enterprise 2013 discovery suite to their Canadian customers – labeling it as the everyday, end-to-end litigation support software solution for law firms of all sizes.

The Enterprise 2013 discovery suite offers the latest in early case assessment, ediscovery processing, web-based review, analytics, predictive coding and high-speed production and transcript management functionality. Designed to streamline the discovery process, it combines advanced features with a simple, intuitive functionality for managing cases from case inception to trial. The Enterprise 2013 suite has a “Windows 8” look and feel, which provides a consistent and user-friendly interface across all three applications. Customers can now experience industry-leading functionality for managing evidence in an intuitive and cost-effective format.

“When Ipro shared their vision with us for a best-of-breed, end-to-end software solution based on their technology, which we have been relying on for more than a decade, we were eager to perform a comprehensive proof of concept,” says Jennifer Johnson, VP of Commonwealth Legal. “The Ipro Enterprise 2013 suite brings together all the latest bells and whistles available for managing evidence, in an intuitive and cost-effective format. It is perfect for the Canadian marketplace.”

All components in the Enterprise 2013 suite have seen significant improvements and work together seamlessly, making it a viable solution for Canadian law firms. Allegro delivers early case assessment and eDiscovery processing features, which include forensic file image handling and QC tools that Ipro customers have come to expect. Eclipse provides a high-performance, scalable review platform with thoughtful, workflow-oriented features that enable legal teams to maintain control over the review process. And, when you want Analytics and Predictive Coding capabilities, they are built in and available at no additional cost.

“Commonwealth Legal’s almost 15 year partnership with Ipro gives them unique insight into our products, so we are excited to be working closely with them to launch the Enterprise 2013 suite in Canada,” says Kim Taylor, President and COO of Ipro Tech, Inc. “We fully support Commonwealth Legal’s endeavors to implement Ipro as the “everyday” discovery solution for law firms and corporations.”

Ipro Enterprise 2013 is now available in Canada through Commonwealth Legal as a direct install at your firm, as part of our managed services offering, or as part of our new “Do-It-Yourself Discovery” model.
