Redmond Marriott Town Center Upgrades Innovative Work Spaces at Workspring

State-of-the-art suite of studios can be rented for $50 a day with new deal from Redmond hotel

Redmond, WA – Businesses looking for ways to maximize meeting productivity in a thought-provoking environment will love the completely upgraded technology and new day-use deal at Workspring at the Redmond Marriott Town Center.

Workspring is a state-of-the-art suite of studios and community spaces at the hotel built to inspire collaboration, enhance productivity and generate results. The Redmond hotel, seeking to anticipate and successfully accommodate business needs, recently made major technology upgrades so equipment is compatible with Windows 8.

The hotel is encouraging business professionals, freelance writers and anyone needing space to spread out and get their creative juices flowing to try Workspring for $50 per day.

Utilizing a space in Workspring enables teams to come together in a quiet space and brainstorm the next great idea or present an already solid plan to supervisors and managers using new LCD projectors. Complimentary beverages are provided as an extra benefit to help ensure that guests' time in Workspring is enjoyable and productive.

Unique from other hotel spaces in Redmond, Marriott's Workspring is designed in a modern, contemporary style to suit every work style. Employees who work best on their own will appreciate individual pods where they can stay isolated in silence. Groups, though, can collaborate in rooms where the furniture can be reconfigured to include tables, boards or even empty spaces to turn ideas into reality. Expansive tables with built-in technologies allow professionals to come in with nothing more than their laptops and immediately start working on strategy without having to worry about hauling every vital cable and cord from the office to the hotel.

Designed with the end-user in mind, Workspring contains ergonomic seating, natural light to flood the space and the option to work outdoors in the fresh air. The option to order food from within Workspring allows the workflow to continue and eliminates the hassle of having to move locations and break concentration. The hotel's chef has created a menu of fresh foods made with local ingredients to help workers feel satisfied yet not bogged down after taking a break to refuel.

Marriott partnered with Steelcase, a leading innovator in workspace design, to make this Seattle virtual office the perfect backdrop for video conferencing. Whether company executives choose to meet in the morning to finalize plans, make a client pitch in the afternoon or rework a proposal in the evening hours, a single studio or the entire center can be utilized.
