

LearnQuest Partners with MasterStreet in Delivering Technology and Business Training Classes

Discover and register for LearnQuest's leading in person and live online technology and business training classes on MasterStreet, including courses from IBM, Microsoft, LearnQuest, and more.

NEW YORK, NY December 9, 2013 – MasterStreet (www.MasterStreet.com) and LearnQuest (www.LearnQuest.com) are proud to announce a new partnership that will make available LearnQuest's technology and business training classes for professionals through MasterStreet's free search engine and booking platform for technology, business and design classes, programs, and conferences.

For over two decades, LearnQuest has provided technology and business training for professionals and Fortune 100 companies. In partnership with IBM and Microsoft, (including LearnQuest courses, and other offerings), LearnQuest has helped thousands of professionals significantly improve the quality and effectiveness of their IT projects. In recognition of its unwavering commitment to training excellence, LearnQuest was recently named as one of only four authorized global training providers by IBM. To meet the needs of busy IT professionals, LearnQuest offers classes in several formats, including in person, live online instructor led, and self-paced online learning. LearnQuest clients include WellPoint, General Electric, United Health Group, Siemens, and 50% of the Fortune 100. LearnQuest is an experienced provider of private and onsite training, which can be requested directly through MasterStreet's free search engine and booking platform.

"At LearnQuest, our mission is to help professionals develop technical skills that are vital for the success of their companies and careers. This goal is accomplished with our cutting-edge training in high demand skill and topic areas," noted Jon Sofro, Director of Sales for North America at LearnQuest. "Our partnership with MasterStreet helps us introduce our classes and training to the next generation of IT professionals and teams in New York City and beyond."

"We are excited to partner with LearnQuest, a leader in information technology training and education that shares our commitment to 100% client satisfaction," said MasterStreet CEO Thomas Lehrman. "Their in person and live online technology and business classes provide convenient, interactive, and high ROI skills development opportunities for the thousands of IT and business professionals who rely on MasterStreet to discover the best classes, executive programs, and conferences."

The following upcoming classes, delivered by LearnQuest's experienced instructors, are examples of programs currently available in New York City or Live Online on MasterStreet:

- Introduction to IBM SPSS Statistics
- Querying Microsoft SQL Server 2012
- Introduction to Cloud Computing Architecture
- UNIX / AIX User Essentials
- Introduction to iPhone and iPad Development
- Object-Oriented Programming with Java

Press Contacts

Thomas Lehrman, CEO
Stephen Schmalhofer, VP of Business Development service@masterstreet.com
(866) 212-1501

About LearnQuest

Since 1997, LearnQuest has been providing complete education solutions for corporations and government organizations that need to train their staff on the latest business skills and Information Technology tools, methodologies, and languages. LearnQuest is nationally accredited by ACCET, an IIBA Charter Endorsed Education Provider and partnered with IBM, Microsoft, Oracle, and Citrix. LearnQuest has worked with Fortune 100 organizations and government agencies to plan, create, and deploy learning solutions, enabling them to implement mission critical business solutions within their organizations. Using a proven education methodology, LearnQuest has helped its clients significantly improve the quality and effectiveness of their IT projects. For the third consecutive year, LearnQuest has been selected to TrainingIndustry.com's 2013 IT Training Companies Watch List. For more information, visit www.LearnQuest.com.

About MasterStreet

MasterStreet is a free search engine and booking platform for technology, business, and design classes, programs, and conferences. MasterStreet's search engine contains more than 5,000+ classes, programs, and conferences from top universities, training organizations, and conference providers that address key skill needs in Engineering, IT, Design, Marketing, Strategy, Finance, Operations, and more. MasterStreet helps partners reach leading entrepreneurs, executives, and their teams while providing useful data and analytics reports. For more information, visit www.MasterStreet.com.