FOOD LOGISTICS NAMES LUCAS SYSTEMS TO 2013 FL100 LIST OF TOP SOFTWARE PROVIDERS FOR FOOD AND BEVERAGE DISTRIBUTORS

Lucas Continues To Win New Customers With Jennifer FoodSelect and Jennifer BottlePick, the Only Voice-Directed Warehouse Solutions Developed for Food and Beverage Distribution

PITTSBURGH, PA, December 18, 2013 – Lucas Systems, Inc., the leading innovator of warehouse productivity solutions for mobile workers and distribution center managers, has been named to the FL100, Food Logistics magazine’s list of the top software and technology providers to the food and beverage, grocery, and foodservice distribution industries. Jennifer FoodSelect and Jennifer BottlePick, the first and only solutions for voice picking and other voice-directed warehouse applications for food and beverage distributors, continues to win new foodservice, grocery and beverage customers. All Jennifer solutions support GS1 data and barcode standards and provide flexible data capture options to improve traceability initiatives in food, beverage and other industries.

Each year, the editors of Food Logistics recognize 100 software and technology providers that help food and beverage manufacturers, foodservice distributors, and grocery retailers attain their business goals. The FL100 is comprised of software providers as well as equipment and technology companies whose products and services play a significant role in food and beverage supply chains.

“The groundswell of interest in software and technology tools affirms the value associated with investing in solutions that boost visibility in the food and beverage supply chain, enhance collaboration, improve regulatory compliance and support sustainability goals,” remarks Lara L. Sowinski, Editor-in-Chief of Food Logistics. “New technology-related products and services combined with better affordability are leveling the playing field for a variety of food related companies, while supporting expansion of the cold chain into developed and emerging markets alike.”

“This recognition by Food Logistics acknowledges our continued growth and expansion as we deliver software solutions that help companies improve efficiency while meeting market and regulatory demands for improved traceability throughout the supply chain,” says Jennifer Lachenman, Vice President of Product Strategy and Business Alliances of Lucas Systems. “More than anything, this honor speaks directly to our success in delivering superior customer results in this vital industry that touches all of our lives.”
